

had such a wonderful coal black hair. Her eyes had a magnificent glow it was like the entire galaxy could be seen through her eyes. Her eyes conveyed the excitement and the happiness clearly. She came close to him; Rithwik stood up, held her hands and gently rubbed her hands. They slowly sat down on the bench which was made of stone and they couldn't take their eyes off each other. For some time they continued looking at each other without speaking a word. And then Anjana asked Rithwik how he was, he replied that he was feeling great and was very happy that he could finally feel her. He told her that he could see her sometimes when he closed his eyes. And she said that not even a single day passed without thinking about him. She felt like the feelings didn't fade instead it strengthened; she was waiting for this moment to finally see him. Rithwik was happy to hear her talk and told her that they did not require any more assurance that this feeling was not just some petty infatuation. They finally got together; both were enjoying each other's company. Anjana could finally be with her soul mate.

Anjana had got placed in a firm in Bangalore so they could see each other easily. Their connection was magical and real, their relation just made their lives more and more beautiful. They supported each other very well and also that magic between them never faded it just strengthened as each day passed. They were happy, after a year they moved in together. They wanted to take